

Restore:London User Survey (Victims of Crime)

The Pan London Restorative Justice Service

The Mayor's Office for Policing and Crime has commissioned Restore:London to deliver the first ever Pan London Restorative Justice Service, a victim-led approach to the provision of restorative justice across London. The Pan London Restorative Justice Service will ensure that victims are able to access consistently high quality restorative justice services at every stage of the criminal justice system.

Restore:London will develop a programme that complements and enhances existing restorative justice services across London, filling any gaps in provision. The programme will be overseen and evaluated by a steering group, comprised of key stakeholders including victims. This ground-breaking approach will share evidence and insight with key partners, including Police and Crime Commissioners across England with responsibility for commissioning victims' services.

About Restore:London

Restore:London is a non-profit consortium led by Catch22 with key partners Restorative Solutions, Khulisa and the IARS International Institute. The consortium partners bring expertise in building and evaluating victim-led services, restorative justice delivery, delivering pan London programmes, offender management and criminal justice innovation.

This Survey

As part of Restore:London's work in designing a Pan-London Restorative Justice Service, we are conducting research to ensure that our service model will meet the needs of its potential future users. As such we are asking victims of crime to tell us about their experiences of restorative justice and the criminal justice system in general.

The survey should take approximately 10 minutes to complete and we are able to offer a £15 voucher to the first 80 people who complete the survey.

This survey is for anyone who has been a victim of crime, whether it was reported or not, and we are interested in the views of people who have participated in restorative justice as well as those that have not.

Your participation in this research study is voluntary. You may choose not to participate. If you decide to participate in this research survey, you may withdraw at any time. Your responses will be confidential and we do not collect identifying information such as your name, email address or IP address, unless at the end of the survey you indicate that you would like to be involved in further research and as such provide your contact details voluntarily. We will keep your information confidential. All data is stored in a password protected electronic format.

If you have any questions about this survey, please contact Rachel O'Brien at r.o'brien@iars.org.uk.

You will not have to answer every question in this survey. Please follow the instructions carefully as you complete the survey as you will be directed to skip some questions that are irrelevant based on your answers to previous questions.
